

all rights reserved by singsang

Bigger than Elvis (Lyrics: Ina Wolf, "Stone of Sisyphus", Artist: Chicago)

Come, let's talk just you & me
For once just let me be.
The little boy you used to know.
Re-live that summer's bliss.
Cause there came no more like this.
Those were the days, the days when love was still in style.

All I ever dreamed I'd be,
is what you are to me.
Bigger than Elvis.
And for all the missing years,
a memory reappears.
Bigger than Elvis.

I saw you on TV.
The 'King' you were to me.
Could you feel me watching you?
At times my heart got loud only heros are allowed to run free, then make a come-back silently

All I ever dreamed I'd be,
is what you are to me.
Bigger than Elvis.
And for all the missing years,
a memory reappears.
Bigger than Elvis.

We know the saddest of goodbyes must be the one that's bringing tears to your child's eyes.

Oh, from now on I'll walk with you making music like you do.
Would you believe I always knew?

You were never hard to take in some mysterious way
Bigger than Elvis
And for all the missing years
your memory reappears
Bigger than Elvis.

Now I've found the missing years,
forgotten all my tears.
I've found the missing years.