

all rights reserved by singsang

Who's Counting Heartaches (Wolf) somehow my heart refuses to remember I had it all and let it fall apart why do we give up what we love the most who'll ever understand it didn't come at all as I had planned now here we are, the night's our only witness through all this time we've kept the flame alive your shining eyes reflect the moonlight coming down as liquid gold my heart is filled with love, more than it can hold, so who's counting heartaches who is blaming who when in the end we're coming through flying higher

who's counting heartaches who's forgiving who
when in the end we're coming through heaven smiles at what we do and in the very end there's me and you no more good-byes, let's fight all storms together don't say a word, your heartbeat is my home someday we'll laugh about the silly games we made each other play our love will keep ghosts from the past away some say that forever is just a word a million ways it can go wrong never say never, we're going strong tonight I'll kiss your tears away this time I'm here to stay, so

who's counting heartaches
who is blaming who
when in the end we're coming through
flying higher
who knows about heartbreaks better than we do but in the end we're coming through
heaven smiles at what we do
and in the very end there's me and you
heaven smiles at what we do
and in the very end there's me and you